BOOK AND SCIENCE FUND - LEUVEN UNIVERSITY PRESS

In a world in which information has to be fast and digital, solid knowledge cannot be taken for granted. Yet, deep knowledge is crucial to developing critical thinking and stimulating a healthy social debate.

Your support enables Leuven University Press to

- improve accessibility of its publications to a wider reading audience by reducing book prices or even in the form of free Open Access;
- publish groundbreaking and highly specialised scientific work that cannot recover its cost in the market;
- develop sustainable and creative publishing models that contribute to a greater accessibility of both printed and digital LUP-publications to students, teachers and scholars.

SUPPORT THE PRESS!

If you wish to support the press, you can transfer a donation to IBAN account number BE45 7340 1941 7789, BIC code KREDBEBB from KU Leuven, stating the structured communication +++ 400/0017/07744 +++.

A donation of € 40 or more per calendar year qualifies for a considerable tax deduction.

MECENAATSFONDS BOEK EN WETENSCHAP - UNIVERSITAIRE PERS LEUVEN

In een wereld waarin informatie snel en digitaal moet zijn, is gedegen kennis geen evident product. Maar zij is wel cruciaal voor de ontwikkeling van kritische geesten en een gezond maatschappelijk debat.

Met dit fonds Boek en Wetenschap wil Universitaire Pers:

- uitgaven en reeksen toegankelijk maken voor een breder publiek aan een sterk gereduceerde prijs of zelfs gratis in Open Access;
- baanbrekend wetenschappelijk werk uitgeven waarvan de publicatiekost moeilijk kan worden terugverdiend door verkoop alleen;
- duurzame en creatieve modellen ontwikkelen die bijdragen tot een grotere toegankelijkheid van zowel gedrukte als digitale UPL-uitgaven voor studenten, docenten en onderzoekers.

STEUN DIT FONDS!

Indien u dit fonds wenst te steunen, dan kan dit via een gift op IBAN-rekeningnummer BE45 7340 1941 7789, BIC-code KREDBEBB van KU Leuven met vermelding van de gestructureerde mededeling +++ 400/0017/07744 +++.

Interfacultaire lessenreeks over mens, maatschappij en wetenschap

Wat zich tegenover ons manifesteert, bepaalt (mee) wie we zijn. Onze verhoudingen met 'het andere' en 'de ander' geven ons een gezicht. Dat kan zowel om verhoudingen op individueel niveau gaan, zoals onze relaties met partners, teamgenoten en medesupporters, als om verhoudingen op macroniveau, bijvoorbeeld met concurrerende belangengroepen, buurlanden of culturen. Onze relatie tot alteriteit, ook wanneer die radicaal verschilt van wat we zelf vertegenwoordigen, biedt een perspectief op wat we zelf te betekenen hebben. In deze bundel gaan onderzoekers vanuit diverse disciplines in op identiteitsbepalende verhoudingen, zoals man-vrouw relaties, de politieke verstandhouding tot landgenoten uit andere regio's, de verhouding tot vreemdelingen, maar ook onze verbinding met mensen die te kampen hebben met communicatieve beperkingen, en de mogelijke connectie met buitenaards leven.

Radicalisation is a topical and a much-discussed concept in current European societies. Its use in policy and societal discourses, such as media coverage and educational contexts, is very sensitive. This thought-provoking collection of essays critically addresses the topic of radicalisation from different angles, combining discipline-specific insights from the fields of sociology, philosophy, history, religious studies, and media studies, with new empirical data.

The authors step away from readily available explanations and rethink the notion of 'the radical'. Rather than merely focusing on individuals or ideologies, they advocate for a contextual perspective that allows to consider the complex interaction between individuals, groups, and institutions, both at a national and international level. Radicalisation: A Marginal Phenomenon, or a Mirror to Society? provides the reader not only with much-needed knowledge of the complex nature of the concept of radicalisation, but also offers insights into the various ways radicalisation processes can be triggered, prevented, or addressed.

The topic of migration has become particularly contentious in national and international debates. Media have a discernable impact on overall societal attitudes towards this phenomenon. Polls show time and again that immigration is one of the most important issues occupying people's minds. This book examines the dynamic interplay between media representations of migrants and refugees on the one hand and the governmental and societal (re)actions to these on the other. Largely focusing on Belgium and Sweden, this collection of interdisciplinary research essays attempts to unravel the determinants of people's preferences regarding migration policy, expectations towards newcomers, and economic, humanitarian and cultural concerns about immigration's effect on the majority population's life. Whilst migrants and refugees remain voiceless and highly underrepresented in the legacy media, this volume allows their voices to be heard.

In-depth case study of memorialisation processes
after the November 2015 Paris attacks

On November 13, 2015, three gunmen opened fire in the Bataclan concert hall at 50 Boulevard Voltaire in Paris and subsequently held the venue under a three-hour siege. This was the largest in a series of coordinated terrorist attacks that eventually killed 130 people and injured 500. During the aftermath of these attacks, expressions of mourning and trauma marked and invariably transformed the urban landscape.

Sarah Gensburger, a sociologist working on social memory and its localisation, lives with her family on the Boulevard Voltaire and has been studying the city of Paris as her primary field site for several years. This time, memorialisation was taking place on her doorstep. Both a diary and an academic work, this book is a chronicle of this grassroots memorialisation process and an in-depth analysis of the way it has been embedded in the everyday lives of the author, neighbours, other Parisians and tourists.

Sarah Gensburger is a senior researcher in social sciences at the French National Center for Scientific Research-CNRS and a member of the executive committee of the international Memory Studies Association.

Gensburger is a careful observer, as well as a well-read one, and with a relatively light touch she is able to present the memorial efforts, the changes to them, and the tensions and cleavages that the memorialisation reveals. [...] This book is unusual—in style, content, and tone. The material is inherently fascinating, and the questions at the heart of the book are crucial. This is a terrific, unique book.” — Scott Straus, University of Wisconsin–Madison

Thought-provoking reflection on culture, colonialism, and the remainders of empire in Belgium after 1960

The degree to which the late colonial era affected Europe has been for long underappreciated, and only recently have European countries started to acknowledge not having come to terms with decolonisation. In Belgium, the past two decades have witnessed a growing awareness of the controversial episodes in the country's colonial past. This volume examines the long-term effects and legacies of the colonial era on Belgium after 1960, the year the Congo gained its independence, and calls into question memories of the colonial past by focusing on the meaning and place of colonial monuments in public space.

The book foregrounds the enduring presence of "empire" in everyday Belgian life in the form of permanent colonial markers in bronze and stone, lieux de mémoires of the country's history of overseas expansion. By means of photographs and explanations of major pro-colonial memorials, as well as several obscure ones, the book reveals the surprising degree to which Belgium became infused with a colonialist spirit during the colonial era.

Another key component of the analysis is an account of the varied ways that both Dutch- and French-speaking Belgians approached the colonial past after 1960, treating memorials variously as objects of veneration, with indifference, or as symbols to be attacked or torn down. The book provides a thought-provoking reflection on culture, colonialism, and the remainders of empire in Belgium after 1960.

It is no coincidence that a historical figure such as Patrice Emery Lumumba, independent Congo's first prime minister, who was killed in 1961, has lived in the realm of the cultural imaginary and occupied an afterlife in the arts. After all, his project remained unfinished and his corpse unburied. The figure of Lumumba has been imagined through painting, photography, cinema, poetry, literature, theatre, music, sculpture, fashion, cartoons and stamps, and also through historiography and in public space. Reverting to either beatifying or diabolising his persona, no art form has been able to escape and remain indifferent to Lumumba. Artists observe the memory and the unresolved suffering that inscribed itself both upon Lumumba's body and within the history of Congo. If Lumumba – as an icon – lives on today, it is because the need for decolonisation does as well.

Rather than seeking to unravel the truth of actual events surrounding the historical Lumumba, this book engages with his representations. What is more, it considers every historiography as inherently embedded in iconography. Film scholars, art critics, historians, philosophers, and anthropologists discuss the rich iconographic heritage inspired by Lumumba. Furthermore, Lumumba's Iconography in the Arts offers unique testimonies by a number of artists who have contributed to Lumumba's polymorphic iconography, such as Marlène Dumas, Luc Tuymans, Raoul Peck, and Tshibumba Matulu, and includes contributions by such highly acclaimed scholars as Gayatri Spivak, Johannes Fabian, Bogumil Jewsiewicky, and Elikia M'Bokolo.

The role and impact of housing exhibitions in architectural culture

Throughout the twentieth century housing displays have proven to be a singular genre of architectural and design exhibitions. By crossing geographies and adopting multiple scales of observation – from domestic space to urban visions – this volume investigates a set of unexplored events devoted to housing and dwelling, organised by technical, professional, cultural or governmental institutions from the interwar years to the Cold War. The book offers a first critical assessment of twentieth-century housing exhibits and explores the role of exhibitions in the codification of notions of domesticity, social models, policies, and architectural and urban discourse. At the intersection of housing studies and the history of exhibitions, The Housing Project not only offers a novel angle on architectural history but also enriches scholarly perspectives in urban studies, cultural and media history, design, and consumption studies.

The story of modernist architects
in East Central Europe

The first half of the twentieth century witnessed the rise of modernist architects. Brokers of Modernity reveals how East Central Europe turned into one of the pre-eminent testing grounds of the new belief system of modernism. By combining the internationalism of the CIAM organisation and the modernising aspirations of the new states built after 1918, the reach of modernist architects extended far beyond their established fields. Yet, these architects paid a price when Europe's age of extremes intensified. Mainly drawing on Polish, but also wider Central and Eastern European cases, this book delivers a pioneering study of the dynamics of modernist architects as a group, including how they became qualified, how they organized, communicated and attempted to live the modernist lifestyle themselves. In doing so, Brokers of Modernity raises questions concerning collective work in general and also invites us to examine the social role of architects today.

'Participatie' werd, in de nasleep van 1968, een sleutelwoord in architectuur, stedenbouw en ruimtelijke ordening in Vlaanderen en Brussel. Sindsdien zijn processen van medezeggenschap, inspraak en coproductie min of meer ingeburgerd in ontwerp- en planningspraktijken. Het enthousiasme voor deze processen is aan wisselende invloeden onderhevig en participatie staat dus lang niet altijd centraal in de feitelijke beslissingsstromen. Dit boek documenteert deze golfbewegingen aan de hand van historische overzichten, gevalstudies, interviews en kritische reflecties. Daarbij wordt nagedacht over de rol van actoren, de kracht van het ontwerp en het belang van (de) politiek. De wetenschappelijke inzichten en praktijkgebaseerde beschouwingen rond de drie grote participatiegolven van 1968 tot nu ronden af met een prospectieve kijk op participatieve benaderingen en een kritische reflectie op toekomstige sociaal-politieke uitdagingen. Deze veelheid aan complementaire invalshoeken maakt Participatiegolven tot een onmisbaar referentiewerk voor een breed lezerspubliek, van architecten, planologen en ontwerpers tot sociale geografen en stadssociologen, en van studenten tot academische en praktijkgerichte professionals.

The relational complexity of urban and rural landscapes in space and in time

The development of historical geographical information systems (HGIS) and other methods from the digital humanities have revolutionised historical research on cultural landscapes. One of today's major challenges, however, concerns the concepts and tools to be deployed for mapping processes of transformation – that is, interpreting and imagining the relational complexity of urban and rural landscapes, both in space and in time, at micro- and macro-scale. The opening up of increasingly diverse collections of source material, often incomplete and difficult to interpret, has led to methodologically innovative experiments.

Mapping Landscapes in Transformation gathers experts from different disciplines, active in the fields of historical geography, urban and landscape history, and heritage conservation. They are specialised in a wide variety of space–time contexts, including regions within Europe, Asia, and the Americas, and periods from antiquity to the 21st century.

‘The aim is to advance cartographic practices. Collectively, the essays make a major contribution to the literature. Most valuable is their variety, which range from conceptual/theoretical to methodological. Most essays focus on a project and discuss relevant applications in enough detail and with enough well-chosen illustrations that readers will gain an appreciation of the value of an approach.’ — Professor David J. ## The canonical legacy of Allan Sekula in contemporary visual art

“Disassembled” Images takes as a point of departure Allan Sekula’s productive approach of disassembling elements in order to reassemble them in alternative constellations. Some of the most pressing issues of our time, such as human labor in a globalized economy or the claim for radical democracy, are recurrent themes in Sekula’s oeuvre and are investigated by a wide range of experts in this book. Addressing a variety of artworks, both by Sekula and other artists, the collected essays focus on three crucial aspects within recent politically engaged art: collecting as a tool for representing folly and madness, the confrontation of the maritime space of ecological disasters and geopolitical processes with alternative models of solidarity, and what Sekula named “critical realism” as a reflective method in search of new social agencies and creative freedom. A text–image portfolio by Marco Poloni completes this profound reflection on Sekula’s influential legacy within contemporary visual art.

Futures of the Contemporary

Contemporaneity, Untimeliness, and Artistic Research

PAULO DE ASSIS · MICHAEL SCHWAB (EDS)

Transdisciplinary approaches to the notions of 'the contemporary' and 'contemporaneity'

Futures of the Contemporary explores different notions and manifestations of 'the contemporary' in music, visual arts, art theory, and philosophy. In particular, the authors in this collection of essays scrutinise the role of artistic research in critical and creative expressions of contemporaneity. When distinguished from 'the contemporaneous' of a given historical time, 'the contemporary' becomes a crucial concept, promoting or excluding objects and practices according to their ability to diagnose previously unnoticed aspects of the present. In this sense, the contemporary gains a critical function, involving particular modes of relating to history and one's own time.

Written by major experts from fields such as music performance, composition, art theory, visual arts, art history, critical studies, and philosophy, this book offers challenging perspectives on contemporary art practices, the temporality of artistic works and phenomena, and new modes of problematising the production of art and its public apprehension.

The Western history of aesthetics is characterised by tension between theory and practice. Musicians listen, play, and then listen more profoundly in order to play differently, adapt the body, and sense the environment. They become deeply involved in the sensorial qualities of music practice. Artistic practice refers to the original meaning of aesthetics – the senses. Whereas Baumgarten and Goethe explored the relationship between sensibility and reason, sensation and thinking, later philosophers of aesthetics deemed the sensorial to be confused and unreliable and instead prioritised a cognitive or objective approach.

Written by authors from the fields of philosophy, composition, performance, and artistic practice, Sensorial Aesthetics in Music Practices repositions aesthetics as a domain of the sensible and explores the interaction between artists, life, and environment. Aesthetics becomes a field of sensorial and embodied experience involving temporal and spatial influences, implicit knowledge, and human characteristics.

La straordinaria polifonia di lingue che caratterizza le letterature nazionali di età moderna è ormai un dato acquisito nelle più aggiornate ricostruzioni di storia letteraria. Meno nota è forse la dialettica vivace che innerva questo delicato equilibrio, nel quale – almeno in Italia – si inseriscono a pieno titolo i dialetti. I lavori raccolti in questo volume, che trae origine da un convegno organizzato dal Ludwig Boltzmann Institut für Neulateinische Studien, si propongono di fare il punto sui dibattiti intellettuali, in tutte le loro gradazioni e forme, intorno al latino come lingua per la letteratura dalla fine dell’Umanesimo in poi: dall’uso del latino in un contesto dove ormai domina il volgare alle traduzioni latine di testi vernacolari, fino al ruolo del latino nella scuola. Una sezione considerevole del volume è dedicata all’uso del latino dalla

Knighthood and Society in the High Middle Ages

DAVID CROUCH · JEROEN DEPLOIGE (EDS)

Chivalry and Elite Conduct in Medieval Europe

In the popular imagination few phenomena are as strongly associated with medieval society as knighthood and chivalry. At the same time, and due to a long tradition of differing national perspectives and ideological assumptions, few phenomena have continued to be the object of so much academic debate. In this volume, leading scholars explore various aspects of knightly identity, taking into account both commonalities and particularities across Western Europe. Knighthood and Society in the High Middle Ages addresses how, between the eleventh and the early thirteenth centuries, knighthood evolved from a set of skills and a lifestyle that was typical of an emerging elite habitus into the basis of a consciously expressed and idealised chivalric code of conduct. Chivalry, then, appears in this volume as the result of a process of noble identity formation, in which five key factors are distinguished: knightly practices, lineage, crusading memories, gender roles, and chivalric didactics.

War, State and Society in Liège is a fascinating case study of the consequences of war in the Prince-Bishopric of Liège and touches upon wider issues in early modern history, such as small power diplomacy in the seventeenth century and during the Nine Years' War.

For centuries, the small semi-independent Holy Roman Principality of Liège succeeded in preserving a non-belligerent role in European conflicts. During the Nine Years' War (1688–1697), however, Liège's leaders had to abolish the practice of neutrality. For the first time in its early modern history, the Prince-Bishopric had to raise a regular army, reconstruct ruined defence structures, and supply army contributions in both money and material.

The issues under discussion in War, State and Society in Liège offer the reader insight into how Liège politically protected its powerful institutions and how the local elite tried to influence the interplay between domestic and external diplomatic relationships.

Roeland Goorts, PhD, studied at the KU Leuven and the University of Reading. His research focuses on medieval and early modern military history, especially in the Prince-Bishopric of Liège.

The first extensive comparison of the German-Jewish literary corpus and contemporary minority writing in German

Countless literary endeavours by ‘new Germans’ have come into the spotlight of academic research since the turn of the 21st century. Yet ‘minority writing’ and its distinctive renegotiation of traditional concepts of cultural identity are far from a recent phenomenon in German literature. More than a hundred years ago, German-Jewish writers put a clear stamp on German modernism and were intensely engaged in various cultural and political discourses on Jewish identity. This book is the first to unfold literary parallels between these two riveting periods in German cultural history. Drawing on the philosophical oeuvre of Jean-Luc Nancy, a comparative reading of texts by, amongst others, Beer-Hofmann, Kermani, Özdamar, Roth, Schnitzler, and Zaimoglu examines similar literary approaches to the thorny issue of cultural identity in either period, while developing an overarching perspective on the ‘politics of literature’.

Een zeldzame geschiedenis
van het Belgische leger

België stond in de decennia voor de Eerste Wereldoorlog niet bekend als een militaristische natie. Poor little Belgium voerde pas in 1913 algemene dienstplicht in, beschikte amper over een militaire traditie en de politieke klasse had een stevige grip op het leger. Deze studie stelt voor het eerst de hardnekkige notie van een vredelievend, diepburgerlijk land zonder noemenswaardige militaire cultuur bij. Van het parlement tot de straat, van de kazerne tot de lagere school: militaire waarden en praktijken begonnen zich in de decennia voor de oorlog steeds sterker te manifesteren in het politieke, sociale en culturele leven. België veranderde langzaam van een neutrale, anti-militaire natie in een neutrale, defensieve natie die – indien bedreigd – ‘ten strijde gereed’ was. In Belgen, zijt gij ten strijde gereed? geeft Nel de Muélenare een nieuwe kijk op de Belgische civiel-militaire relaties in de aanloop naar de Eerste Wereldoorlog.

Hebben dieren een geschiedenis? Dit boek toont alvast aan dat het eeuwen-lange samenleven van de mens met huis-, boerderij- en andere dieren meer dan voldoende aanleiding geeft tot een alternatief historiografisch perspectief. In twintig verhalen reflecteert dit boek op een geschiedenis die verder denkt dan menselijke dadendrang en grooteheid(swaanzin). Enkele ‘beroemde’ dieren passeren de revue, zoals de hond van Bismarck of de schildpad van Batibouw, maar ook erg bescheiden beestjes zoals de aardworm of de kip worden niet over het hoofd gezien. Zelfs ontastbare wezens zoals de mythische Lilith, de metaforische ‘waakhond’ van de overheid en de misselijkmakende kater komen in dit kleurrijk bestiarium aan bod.

Wie het verleden wil begrijpen, moet ook veranderingen in de ecologie, de biologie en soms de zoölogie willen zien. Het resultaat is een groot-hartige en inclusieve blik op het verleden, die voortbouwt op de inclusieve tendensen van de ‘sociale geschiedenis’ zoals die in de laatste decennia is uitgedragen door prof. Leen Van Molle, gewoon hoogleraar Sociale Geschiedenis aan de KU Leuven, aan wie de bundel is opgedragen.

Het bijzondere verhaal van de vier campussen van UZ Leuven

De Leuvense academische ziekenhuizen zijn uitgegroeid tot een symbool van medische spits technologie en top geneeskunde. Dit boek schetst hun geschiedenis en belicht de ontwikkeling van vier campussen: Salve Mater in Lovenjoel, Sint-Barbara in Pellenberg, Sint-Rafaël en Sint-Pieters in het Leuvense stadscentrum, en Gasthuisberg net buiten de stad. Het volgt de evolutie van de Leuvense ziekenzorg van de bestuurs kamers tot het ziekbed, vanaf de Eerste Wereldoorlog tot heden. Die evolutie werd gekenmerkt door een buitengewone groei, waarachter een complex spel schuilging van kennisproductie, staatsvorming, ideologie en taal strijd. De uitbouw van de Belgische welvaartstaat, de strijd om Leuven-Vlaams, de toename van medische specialisatie en de secularisering van de samenleving; het waren processen die om een voortdurende modernisering van het ziekenhuis vroegen. Artsen, verpleegkundigen én patiënten worstelden met die veranderende structuren. Dit boek brengt hun verhalen.

China Matters

Transformation Processes in the Global and the Personal Realm

In today's world it is hard to overlook China's ascendancy on the global stage as it is rapidly integrating and interconnected in the global system of production and consumption. The coming of age of modernisation of China has deeply re-oriented if not fully transformed the everyday life and selfhood of the Chinese people. Against the national political ambition of developing a Chinese model of 21st century modernity seeking solutions for global challenges and local conundrums, China has become a social laboratory, where 'newness' is embraced and cultivated in the social, cultural, and personal realms. However, given the interconnectivity of China with the rest of the world, these new developments and experimentations in China also impact other parts of the world, both the global North and South.

Perhaps even more pertinently, global China serves as a social lab, mirroring the condition humaine of the 21st century with unprecedented disruption and transformation. How these disruptive and transformational processes evolve and take on concrete forms constitutes the core content of this book series.

Translation, Interpreting and Transfer takes as its basis an inclusive view of translation and translation studies. It covers research and scholarly reflection, theoretical and methodological, on all aspects of the core activities translation and interpreting, but also similar rewriting and recontextualisation practices such as adaptation, localisation, transcreation, and transediting, keeping Roman Jakobson's inclusive view on interlingual, intralingual, and intersemiotic translation in mind. The title of the series, which includes the more encompassing concept of transfer, reflects this broad conceptualisation of translation matters.
