In the show ring the American Saddlebred enchants audiences with their elegant, high stepping action and charming attitudes. Few breeds match their gracefulness. This breed—America’s first registered horse—also has a rich history intertwined with the story of our country. The Museum provides an exciting and educational experience where visitors learn the important role the American Saddlebred played in our nation’s history, and how the American Saddlebred has evolved into the elegant, athletic, and versatile breed we know today. Visit often to see our changing exhibits as well as interactive permanent displays. The Museum’s mission is to preserve the traditions and promote the heritage of the American Saddlebred. We accomplish this through actively preserving our extensive collection of trophies, photographs, tack, artwork, memorabilia, and publications that directly relate to the American Saddlebred experience. Thank you to Sunrise Stables for allowing us to photograph for this year’s catalog on your beautiful grounds. A special thank you to our models Emma Caruso, Jessica Curl, Billy Jarrell, and Melissa Moore. Also thank you to Stephanie Gilmore and James Shambhu for their beautiful imagery.
