

Thyro Boost

Thyroid Building Support

The thyroid gland, one of the largest endocrine glands in the body, is located at the base of the neck, wrapping around the larynx (voice box) and trachea (windpipe). This important part of the endocrine system influences every organ system and function of the body, including metabolism rates.

The thyroid is also the body's internal thermostat. Fatigue, low body temperature, and intolerance to cold temperatures may indicate a low functioning thyroid. Thyroid function will often respond favorably to dietary and lifestyle changes and herbal supplements. Iodine, a vital substance in the thyroid hormone, thyroxin, is an important building block often lacking in our diets. It is found in various sea vegetables and black walnut hull, herbs that are used in Thyro Boost.

Thyro Boost has been formulated specifically to support healthy thyroid function. This formula helps build and activate the thyroid, as well as build up iodine reserves, and has a wide variety of naturally occurring mineral salts and vitamins necessary for healthy thyroid function.*
