

Immune Builder

Immune System Building Support

Immune Builder is an immune system building tonic for people of all ages made with herbs called adaptogens that gently build and strengthen overall health and help rebalance immune function.

The immune system's job is to decide what is part of the body "Self" and what is not part of the body "Not self", and to react accordingly. Immune Builder helps to gently balance immune responses so the immune system can function correctly and is an excellent choice for those whose immune systems are so overly sensitive they may not be able to use immune stimulating herbs.

The main herbs in Immune Builder are native to Russia, India, and China. Schisandra berry, eleuthero root, and ashwagandha root help soothe stress and nerves, balance body systems, and help strengthen the immune system without stimulating it. Gotu kola leaf and ginkgo leaf support oxygen levels in the brain, helping to gently increase energy levels, brain function, and immune function. Licorice root and spearmint leaf are soothing support the adrenal glands and digestion.*
