It is a known problem that any NRI bride or bridesmaid, or the family, based out of the US, Canada, UK, or the Middle East, has been facing since the onset of the pandemic. Even before that, the search for that perfect Indian outfit always leads to frustration and sleepless nights due to either too many choices or too little customization. But with one brand aiming to end this struggle, the wait for owning a deeply desired wedding trousseau is over. Lashkaraa.com promises to satiate the whole family's needs for wedding wear and festive shopping by introducing multiple collections and awesome customization according to both design and size. Whether it is the to-be married couple, children, parents, grandparents, or relatives, everyone will find an outfit or accessories that they need.
