Information collection, use and disclosure

In this policy, when we say we "collect" information, we generally mean that your browser keeps track of the information locally and then periodically uploads it to our Metrics Service. The Metrics Service stores the information persistently in a database for later use. When we say we "use" information, we generally mean that we store it, retrieve it, parse it, aggregate it, analyze it, report on it, combine it with information from other sources, and do similar transformations and analyses in pursuit of understanding how users in aggregate use Tiny Gravity and how we can make our services better.

Our primary goals in collecting information are to provide and improve our services, features, and content.

- Your Personal Information. When you communicate with us or use Tiny Gravity, we may collect personally identifiable information about you. This refers to information about you that can be used to contact or identify you ("Personal Information"). For instance, if you email us requesting support, you'll provide us with your email address so we can respond to you. Personal Information can also include, but is not limited to, your name, phone number, IP address, or home address. (We might not ask you for all or any of these things, but you might provide them to us without our asking – for instance, in an email to us.) We use your Personal Information mainly to provide the Services and to respond to your requests for support.
- Non-Identifying Information. We also collect other information that you provide or that is provided to us about you when using Tiny Gravity (e.g., without limitation, what search engine(s) you use, and your individual preferences, your interest data when signing up for our mobile apps, etc) ("Non-Identifying Information"). We may also collect Non-Identifying Information about your age, gender, and city or zip code when you log into the product or even if you've just downloaded the product, but have yet to register. For instance, when you log in with your Facebook credentials, Facebook might tell us you're a 29-year-old male from ZIP code 78701. This information comes from the data you've supplied in your Facebook profile and agreed to share with applications like Tiny Gravity. This information on its own generally isn't enough to identify you specifically. We may also collect all the categories of information listed in the "Please Read This Carefully" section above. All this information is considered Non-Identifying Information.
- How We Use Your Information. We don't sell your Personal Information. We use your Personal Information (in some cases, in conjunction with your Non-Identifying Information) to provide you with and improve Tiny Gravity, including to offer and administer the Tiny Gravity Reward program and any associated sweepstakes, and to respond to your requests for support. It's also provided to help you earn rewards and to know when Tiny Gravity should be paid out to you. Your Non-Identifying Information, such as device ID's, other unique identifiers such as "hashed" email addresses and profile information can be made available by Tiny Gravity to its partners to help target ads to you based on your presumed interests. This is all Non-Identifying Information which you agree to share when you download any of the Tiny Gravity applications. Any information that you provide to Tiny Gravity either implicitly or explicitly can be used by Tiny Gravity, its affiliates, subsidiaries, and partners to help tailor services to you, or for any other purposes to which you consent. In addition, we may share non-identifying geographic location and Bluetooth data that we have collected with our partners to allow them to infer your interests and serve ads to you based on your activity and location over time. Please note that you may opt out of having any of the foregoing.

- Aggregating Information. We may aggregate the Non-Identifying Information we collect with similar information collected from other Tiny Gravity Users to provide you with a better experience, to improve the quality and value of Tiny Gravity, and to analyze and understand how Tiny Gravity is used. We may also use information you provide without aggregating it to serve you specifically; for instance, to deliver a product to you according to your preferences or restrictions.
- Demographic Profiling. We might also use non-aggregated information for development or demographic profiling purposes, but any such use would not be personally identifiable. For instance, we might combine the information Facebook sends us about your age, gender and ZIP code with the data Tiny Gravity sends us about your usage habits to find out more about which groups of people use specific Browser features. As an example, we might do this to get a sense of how many people aged 18-21 use the share feature, but not who those people actually are.
- Newsletters and Marketing. We also may use your Personal Information to contact you with Tiny Gravity newsletters, marketing or promotional materials and other information that may be of interest to you, either generally or in your capacity as a Tiny Gravity member. If you decide at any time you no longer wish to receive such communications from us, please follow the unsubscribe instructions provided in any of the communications.
