

Holiday Guide: GloLens from FashionIt

The holidays are coming and it is time to get a head start on the holiday rush that is in the near future. With that said, I find that during this time of year, before the holiday shopping really starts to kick off, that I like to seek out the gifts that are not only those must haves that might become harder to find as we get closer to the holiday shopping season, but also the gifts for those hard to shop for on my list as well. And like many who have those selfie queens in the home, Heather tends to find that when it comes to her daughter, that it can be a little hard to figure out what to get her each year as she gets older. So when we were sent the GloLens from the FashionIt line, I knew that Heather would be excited to share it with her daughter and also share their thoughts on the GloLens with our readers!

If you want to take a selfie and have it look more natural, this is the light to use. I gave this to my older daughter Kendra as I am not a person of selfies. This couldn't be any easier to use. Just align the light over the center of your front facing camera, turn it on, and snap a pic! It has 3 different settings for the light so you can adjust the brightness. The GloLens is made up of 4 cool light bulbs and 8 warm light bulbs to balance the lighting. I really like that there is no need to worry about batteries as this is rechargeable with the included cable.

Then when it comes to storing the GloLens when not using it, I like that there is also a nice little bag to carry it in. There are 3 different colors to choose from: silver, gold, and rose gold and the GloLens fits on most smartphones and tablets. Even better is it has a wide angle so you can do group photos too! So, if you have someone who loves to take selfies, this is for them! And to help with the holiday shopping when it comes to finding that perfect gift to give the selfie queen in your life, the wonderful people from FashionIt would like to give one of my readers their own GloLens.
