

2017 Gift Guide: Best Gifts for Teens That Aren't Gift Cards

If you know a teen, you probably think that all they want is gift cards. True that gift cards let them buy what they want but this year, but the best gifts for teens aren't just gift cards. This year stop and listen to figure out what your teen is always talking about. What shows are they binging on? What their friends talking about? What are the things they are never without?

Chances are there's something far more creative than a gift card you can think to get them that will show them that you're really paying attention to them and their needs. Because that's what our teens really want- love, acceptance, and to know that you're paying attention.

My list of Best Gifts for Teens is just the tip of the iceberg. There are things on my list that are sure to appeal to a teen you know or at least get your creative juices thinking about what would really thrill them this season. After all, gifting them with that they'll love but aren't expecting is a sure way to show them how much you truly care and are really paying attention.

GloLens ($24)

Up your selfie game and take the best Instas thanks to GloLens. This smartphone accessory features 12 LED bulbs to enhance every scene and comes with a carrying case and USB charging cable. Available in rose gold, gold or silver.

Source: <http://techsavvymama.com/2017/11/2017-teen-gift-guide.html>