A LULLABYE FOR THE SKIN | SHIFFA'S ROSE MAROC NIGHT ELIXIR

Roses - we adore them for their beauty and their intoxicating aroma, which can be sweet, powdery, citrus or even musky and of course their ability to hydrate and subtly perfume the skin. Shiffa is a new brand we recently discovered that has bottled the enchanting properties of this beloved bloom into their Rose Maroc Night Elixir that is as powerful as it is gentle. It incorporates a unique, heeling complex including a Granactive Retinoid, which delivers a dose of hydration and stimulates cell renewal and helps to reverse hyperpigmentation; mirabilis, a night-blooming botanical, known for its regenerating capabiliies, works to reverse skin damage and rid the skin of toxins.

Why We Love It: We might be partial, but we love drifting off to sleep with products that smell like roses. A few pumps of this golden oil are all you need to make any skin dryness a thing of the past, as it immediately sinks into the skin. In the morning after using for nearly a week, our skin felt incredibily soft and any signs of dehydrated skin (like around the nose area) were less apparent.

About the Brand: Founded by Dr. Lamees Hamdan, Shiffa coined after the Arabic word 'to heal', is a dermatoligist that believes in melding the holistic power of nature with a dose of science by harvesting naturals from around the world. The brand carefully sources their ingredients like roses from Iran, orange blossoms from Lebanon and jasmine from Egypt.
