WHAT IS CBD?

CBD stands for cannabidiol. Cannabidiol, is one of the primary natural cannabinoids found in the industrial hemp plant.

WHAT IS CANNABINOID?

There are over a hundred unique chemical compounds found in both marijuana and hemp called cannabinoids. The two most famous cannabinoids are CBD and THC. THC is the cannabinoid found in marijuana that gets you "high". CBD is the non-intoxicating cannabinoid found in hemp.

THC-intoxicating (gets you high)

WHAT IS A TERPENE?

Terpenes are organic, naturally-occurring compounds found in the essential oils of plants. Similar to cannabinoids, terpenes bind receptors in the brain and work with cannabinoids to enhance the benefits of a product.

Cannabis - Sativa

WHAT'S THE DIFFERENCE BETWEEN CANNABIS AND HEMP?

Hemp

Marijuana and hemp are two varieties of the same plant species, cannabis sativa. Hemp has low levels of THC (0.3% or less) and high levels of CBD. Nature's Ultra products contain a CBD isolate which has zero percent THC.

WILL NATURE'S ULTRA CBD MAKE YOU HIGH?

Short answer, No. CBD isolate, by definition, does not contain THC, which is found in marijuana and may produce cognitive effects such as euphoric or dissociative feelings.

CAN MILITARY AND GOVERNMENT WORKERS USE THESE PRODUCTS?

Even though CBD isolates by definition contain 0.0% THC, due to the varying accuracies of drug-screen tests, it is suggested that employees subjected to drug screening consult with their employer and Nature's Ultra before using the products.
