

Above: Another image taken by George Wooden of the Menin Gate at Ypres. This is a place I have stood at on many occasions where the ceremony that is held each night at 8 p.m. has become a focal point of remembrance. (Nic Blythe)

Below left: Delville Wood, which was visited by Lieutenants Sutcliffe and Ewart who were serving in the 2nd Battalion in 1923. (Author's collection)

Below right: Fred Gibbs who served in the 8th Battalion and saw the horrors of places like Delville Wood. This is my favourite image of a Norfolk Regiment man and he epitomises the spirit of the men who served on the Western Front. (Author's collection)
