Supple goatskin leather outer gives maximum dexterity

Co-Z sherpa fleece liner: To help keep hands warm when the temperature drops.

Everyone loves leather, but until now, it has been unsuitable for heavy industry use. The Deep Impact Driver Winter's flexible impact protection and cut-resistant base layer have beefed up classic goatskin gloves for nearly any situation.

Goat-skin leather outer is bolstered with an invisible high density cut resistant base layer that guards wearers from cut and puncture injuries. The key thumb and ranch cuff feel familiar, but the addition of flexible impact protection reduces the severity of pinch and caught between injuries. The continuous protection from fingertips to knuckles effectively shields high areas of injury with segmentation that allows full range of motion. These curved Cestus finger seams reduce hand strain when jobs stretch on for hours.
