

Photographer, Writer, Designer and Adventurer

Tracey Elliot-Reep, her passion for life.

Tracey Elliot-Reep grew up on Dartmoor in southwest England, where she has her base producing greeting cards, calendars and books.

After completing art college she worked with and sketched the animals in a travelling circus, then travelled through Europe and North America, teaching horse riding before qualifying as a photographer in South Wales. For several years she worked as a freelance photojournalist for magazines, during which time she interviewed royalty at Buckingham Palace and rode 2,000 miles the length of New Zealand.

Tracey started her card business over twenty-six years ago with six postcards while living in a caravan with her Jack Russell dog. From that small beginning she expanded into her large range of greeting cards, calendars and books. Her faith in God and her love of horses, adventure and photography has taken her to many places including Africa, Tibet, Israel and Russia.

Tracey has ridden horses from the top of Scotland to Land's End in England, around Southern Ireland and Wales, across North America and from Greece to north-west Spain. She has documented these adventures in four beautiful photographic books. The first was the original New Zealand book, followed by the Ireland story on her Highland ponies. Riding by Faith Across America is about Tracey's exciting journey riding her two Quarter horses from Mexico to Canada. She also travelled with two Greek horses across southern Europe over the Alpine mountain passes, joining an ancient pilgrim trail, the Way of St. James, all the way through France and across the windswept plains of northern Spain.

The story of her latest exploits is told in her beautiful photographic book called Riding by Faith through Israel. It is a graphic and gripping account of her journey on horseback around Israel, including the ANZAC (Australian and New Zealand soldiers) reenactment of the Charge of Beersheba, in WWI – the last successful cavalry charge in history.

The finale of this pilgrimage was entering the Jaffa Gate exactly one hundred years after the British forces had entered into the Old City, led by the devout Christian General Lord Allenby, declaring liberation after 400 years of Ottoman rule. She ends her journey on her two horses on the Mount of Olives overlooking Jerusalem, where decades earlier at nineteen she had asked Jesus Christ into her heart to be her Lord and Saviour.

As you read these amazing stories of Tracey's journeys by faith across countries and continents, undergirded by God's amazing provision and faithfulness, you cannot help but be strengthened and encouraged in your own personal walk with God and to live your own dreams.

Here are a few testimonials of her Riding by Faith books:

Riding by Faith Across Southern Europe.
"I am completely amazed at your journey! Again, I love the photography throughout the book. Also, I like the passages and quotes at the beginning of each section. Thank you for your amazing and inspiring books and photography." Phoebe A.

"I loved the book so much that I have just ordered Riding across America. I found your sayings scattered through the book, either from the Bible or inspirational people, wonderful. Your book, with your faith in God, was like a bolt out of the blue, showing just how it works even when things get tough. So thank you once again for publishing your book." P. B.

"I've just finished reading the most interesting book I think I have ever read!" Ray F.

"The pages of this book feature breathtaking photographs of the Wild West, its animals and many friends. Not only is it a delightful read but she cleverly relates to the environment and aspects of American history associated with the states she rides through. I am left with the strong sense that this lady has the courage and perseverance that would be the envy of many soldiers... and that, coming from a former commander in Her Majesty's Forces, must be saying something." Brigadier Simon Young CBE.
