Commemoratives

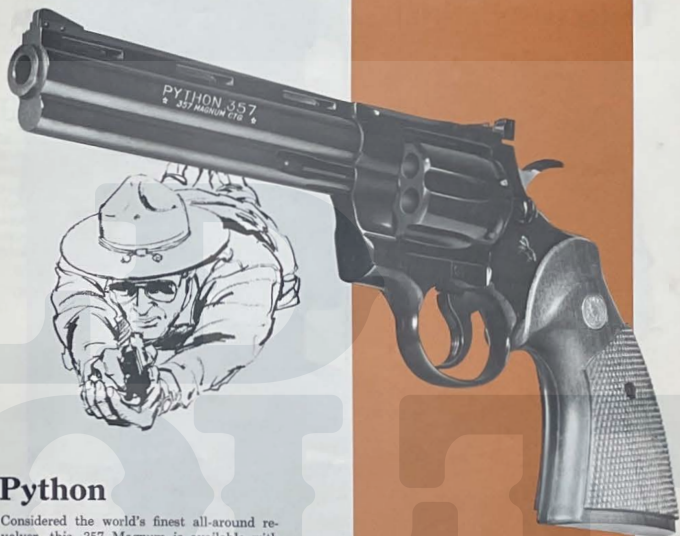

Commemorative gun collecting is a relatively new hobby. It's also a highly prestigious and profitable one. In the early 1960's Colt introduced the first model of its modern commemorative line. To date, over a hundred models have been produced, each commemorating an historic person, event, location or organization. All of these handsome collector's items are packaged in rich presentation cases and most include descriptive literature and appropriate accessories.

Because commemorative Colts are produced in limited quantities, their value usually increases as availability decreases. A good example of this is the Carolina Charter Tercentenary Scout issued in 1963. Only 300 were produced, selling at $75.00. Recently, according to trading price lists published by leading commemorative dealers, the gun was valued at $250.00—a 340% increase.

To find out all about it, see your nearby Colt Dealer, write Colt Industries, Firearms Division, 150 Huyshope Avenue, Hartford, Connecticut 06102, or write Colt's Commemorative Gun Collectors Association of America, P.O. Box 5206, Beverly Hills, Calif., 90210.

Colt Engraving

Colt factory engraving meets the highest standards of technical skill and artistic flair. Order a Colt, already engraved, from the factory, or have your own prized Colt engraved by our experienced factory engravers. Colt standard grades of engraving, individually designed by the engraver, are executed in the traditional American style of scrollwork and flourishes. The basic difference between the standard grades of engraving is the amount of coverage of the firearm.

Grade	Coverage (Approx.)
A	1/4 of metal surfaces
B	1/2 of metal surfaces
C	3/4 of metal surfaces
D	full coverage of metal surfaces

Each revolver has an engraved: barrel, frame, side plates, and portions of the cylinder (see photo). Each automatic pistol has an engraved: slide, top and sides, frame, and grip safety on full coverage. Custom engraved lettering is also available with or without flush inlay. Custom engraving patterns, styles and motifs can be executed upon request including: flush scroll inlays, raised inlays, engraved scenes, and many animal motifs. For further price information, include the following: model name, barrel length, and coverage desired. Write to: Customer Service Department, Colt Industries, Firearms Division, 150 Hushope Avenue, Hartford, Connecticut, 06102.
