

Jakian Parks is a photographer and filmmaker based in Oklahoma City. His work has a primary focus on black subjects as visual portraiture art. Combining storytelling with community refines his unique perspective while documenting blackness. Through various mediums he highlights the beauty of black people while addressing the sociopolitical aspects of the lifestyle. His practice serves as arts education, exposing the greatness of a diaspora often overlooked.