MONTHLY CAUSE: REFUGEE LANGUAGE PROJECT

RFL builds bridges between refugee communities and local individuals, institutions, and organizations. We do this by building relationships with refugee community leaders and responding to their felt needs. Some examples include a citizenship class we offered at a Burmese church, an ongoing literacy class for Somali women, and our Face to Face mentorship program.

We also conduct community dialogues with specific refugee communities to help them dream about a better future. Then we share the results of these meetings with local partners and equip them to meet those needs.

Finally, we serve local organizations by equipping them to understand refugee cultures.
