Preface

It continues to be a rewarding, divine communion for me to preach expositively through the New Testament. My goal is always to have deep fellowship with the Lord in the understanding of His Word and out of that experience to explain to His people what a passage means. In the words of Nehemiah 8:8, I strive “to give the sense” of it so they may truly hear God speak and, in so doing, may respond to Him.

Obviously, God’s people need to understand Him, which demands knowing His Word of Truth (2 Tim. 2:15) and allowing that Word to dwell in them richly (Col. 3:16). The dominant thrust of my ministry, therefore, is to help make God’s living Word alive to His people. It is a refreshing adventure.

You are now holding in your hands a complete, combined index of all thirty–three volumes of the New Testament commentary series. It synthesizes the existing indexes in the back of each volume, allowing you to trace across the entire set any mention of a particular Scripture passage, Greek or Hebrew word, or subject. From there you can corroborate your findings to fit your needs. Please note that because some commentaries were printed decades ago, and have gone through numerous reprints since then, page numbers in the index may not match exactly to your copy. We have made every effort to make this index as up-to-date as possible.

My prayer is that the users of this index are strengthened by God in their study. May the Holy Spirit speak clearly to you in His Word, which holds the power of eternal life, and may His revelation penetrate your mind and heart to bring about greater obedience and faithfulness—to the glory of our great God.
