BLACKJACK / 6 DICE NEEDED

The object of Blackjack is to throw 21 each round without going over.

Select an odd number of rounds to play. In each round, players start by tossing three of their six dice attempting to go as close to 21 as possible without going over. Players then have the choice to toss up to three more additional dice in the round.

If the score is tied, then the round is replayed. Whoever wins the most rounds is the winner.

ROUND THE CLOCK / 2 DICE NEEDED

The object of Round the Clock is to be the first player to throw all numbers from 1 to 12 in order.

The first player throws two dice, hoping to roll a 1. The second player then attempts to roll a 1, followed by the third player. On the next round, players who successfully rolled a 1 uses two dice to try to roll a 2, and players who were unsuccessful continue trying to roll a one.

The first person to throw all numbers from 1 to 12 in order wins.

PIG / 1 DIE PER PLAYER

The object of Pig is to accumulate as many points as possible, adding up the numbers rolled on the die.

Each player takes turn rolling a die as many times as they'd like and tracking their scores. If a player rolls a 1, their turn is over and their points during that turn do not count. If a player is afraid of rolling a 1 at any point during their turn, they can call "hold" to end their turn and count their total score. First player to reach 100 wins.

Example: The first player begins the round rolling a 3. That player can choose to roll again, or "hold" and score those 3 points. If that player rolls a 5 next, they can choose to hold and score 8 points, ending their turn. If that player decides to roll again and rolls a 1, they score zero points and their turn ends.

1-4-24 / 6 DICE NEEDED

The object of 1-4-24 is to roll a 1 and 4, and get the highest possible score with the other four dice (highest possible score of 24).

The first player rolls all six dice. After each roll, the player keeps at least one dice, and re-rolls the rest. You cannot re-roll a dice once it's been held. A turn ends when all dice have been held.

A player must keep a 1 and a 4 or they are disqualified. The remaining four dice are totaled (maximum score for a turn is 24).

The winner is the player with the highest score.
