

WANTED: SOFT GOODS DESIGN INTERN SUMMER '19

Last Updated: 03/28/2019

We're Peak Design, and we design, build, and sell photography and lifestyle products. We have a website to prove it. You might also recognize us from other websites like Kickstarter, where we've raised $15.5 million across 7 campaigns, earning the title as the most crowdfunded company in existence. Click on those links and see for yourself, and make sure to check our Our Story and Mission pages. You might say that we're kid-tested, but not always 100% mother-approved. Translation: we like to have a good time around here, and we're looking for someone with the same mentality.

Our team is 35 members strong and growing. We've churned out some pretty high quality, award winning products and have a fairly dialed-in supply chain system. We're proud of our community, our products, and most of all, our people. And yes, we know this sounds a bit horn-tooty. But why would we buy all these horns if we weren't going to toot 'em?

The job

You'll be working closely with our award-winning soft goods design team to bring a new family of products across the finish line, and dreaming up what's next to come. We'd love if you had experience in soft goods manufacturing and design, but a deep nerd-level love and an interest in learning are just as good. You'll be contributing directly to our designs, working with our manufacturers, helping with materials testing, and helping us conduct end-user testing. Internships at Peak Design are all about trying to teach our interns as much as possible about what we do, and we feel the best way to do that is to get your hands dirty and jump right in as part of the design team.

This will be a full-time position for Summer 2019. Exact start/stop date can be negotiated.

The Comp...

Our internships offer a competitive hourly wage based on education and experience. The job will start as soon as you're able.

If you've read this far, and are still interested...great! Go to peakdesign.com/careers and click the APPLY TO WORK WITH US button. Fill out the form. Give us your best. We'll be in touch! The application window closes on Friday May 4, and interviews will take place in our San Francisco office.

Let's party.
