ROYAL BROWN DEER ANTLER

Ingredients: 100% naturally shed deer antler.

Description: These deer antlers are a rich dark shade of brown - also known as "A" grade in the antler community.

Recommended for: Adult dogs. Small antlers are best for dogs under 30 lbs, medium antlers are suitable for dogs 31-50 lbs, and large antlers are best for dogs 50+lbs.

Chew Time: This antler is likely to withstand weeks to months before it needs to be replaced.

Sales Tips: Fresh antlers that have been picked up very recently after being naturally shed will have a dark brown coloration, compared to bleached white antlers that have been exposed to the sun for prolonged periods of time. Antlers are good for customers looking for a very long lasting chew. Whole antlers are much tougher than split antlers. Pick the right sized antler depending on the chewing strength of the dog (i.e. a large German shepherd should not be given a small antler, they should be given a large antler). If your dog seems to not be interested in the antler, try to simmer (not boil) them for about 30 minutes in beef broth, to add some flavor. Deer antlers are much harder and denser compared to elk antlers.

Other Ways to Purchase: Available as a small (under 100g), medium (101 - 200g), or large (201-300g) antler. Royal Brown Deer antlers can be whole or split.
