promotional strategies
Gift with purchase

Gift with purchase (GWP) promotions can be incredibly motivating to customers and should be a highly recommended alternative to sitewide discounts, as they provide a way for customers to feel like they’re ‘scoring a great deal’, while helping the retailer to not give away margin unnecessarily.

Pro tip! Shopify Flow can be used to automate the process of adding a line item to an order.

Bundles

Consider bundles in order to increase average order value, spread profit margin and losses across the entire order (for old stock), or to entice customers to try a new product.

Examples include:
- A ‘buy the look’ capsule wardrobe bundle (ie: a skirt, a sweater, and a scarf)
- A “free gift” offer in order to spread the margin losses across the order
- Buy X, Y, and Z, Get W% off and/or Buy X, Y and Z, Get $W off

Limited quantity exclusives (flash sales)

Consider artificially keeping the quantity of a new, exciting product below the expected demand in order to generate buzz and exclusivity. Launch a flash sale and see how fast a merchant can sell out of all of their stock for that item.

Pro tip! Flash sales can be automated with Launchpad by scheduling product launches, price changes, and theme updates ahead of time.

Buy now, pay later

Shoppers like 0% APR promotions because they feel similar to discounts, without the need to discount your product. This helps immediately free up cash flow for the customers.

Pro tip! Shop Pay Installments is down to raise AOV by up to 50% and increase checkout time by 30%.
Ethical promotions

Create discounts like choosing your own discount, pay what you can, or donate to a charity with your order. It’s a way to make customers feel good about their purchase and acknowledges the turbulent times we’ve all been experiencing in the past few years.

Shopify Planet app

With Planet, every time your merchant ships an order, they will support some of the most promising climate solutions on Earth. Each project has been vetted by the Shopify Sustainability Fund, which has committed more than $30 million to these same projects.

Every month, Planet calculates the total shipping emissions generated by merchants’ orders and charges based on the price of the Planet subscription plan selected. The Planet dashboard gives merchants access to real-time data showcasing the total impact of their efforts over time, which they can then share with their customers.
Ethical brands that don’t discount

Some companies opt out of discounting as a way to better reflect their beliefs and goals. In many cases, going this route has increased customer loyalty and connection while creating a compelling brand story.

Examples of alternative discounting:
- Shutting down for the day and urging customers to spend time outdoors, rather than shopping
- Encouraging customers to donate to charity instead of making purchases
- Pledging to donate a percentage (in some cases 100%) of BFCM profits to a cause the brand supports
- Not offering a discount, but bringing back old styles or limited edition products for the day
- Planting trees for every item purchased

Giving Tuesday

There’s a big focus on the holidays - Black Friday and Cyber Monday - but merchants can also take advantage of building their brand image by participating in Giving Tuesday, the day after Cyber Monday.

Some brands have truly championed the giving spirit by turning their Black Friday campaigns into massive charitable drives. Merchants can donate a percentage or dollar amount per sale to an organization of their choosing.
VIP and delight

VIP access

Celebrating customers, even in small ways, can have a tremendous impact on retention and customer lifetime value. A merchant’s top 20% of customers likely bring in the majority of their revenue, so let’s celebrate them by extending exclusive promotions to VIP customers.

Ideas:
- Offer premium shipping rates like free express delivery or discounted shipping.
- Provide exclusive VIP access to locked content on your site. Locksmith or EasyLockDown are good apps to recommend for this. (Bonus points: Create mystery and drive traffic to the store with an email campaign guiding customers to the locked content)
- Hold a virtual event offering top customers the opportunity to see holiday products first.
- If there’s a points-based loyalty program in place, increase the amount of loyalty points earned on every dollar based on the VIP tier the customer has reached.

Moments of delight

Discounts aren’t the only way you can celebrate customers this season. Here are some creative ways you can give back to the best shoppers:

Ideas:
- Make a donation in a customer’s name to a charity your brand supports
- Send handwritten thank you cards with orders
- Surprise customers with hidden gift cards in their orders
- Offer gift-wrapping services
- Feature a customer on your website in a story of the month
- Hand deliver a local VIP their products in person on the same day they ordered (Bonus points: Get it on video for socials!)
- Create a unique “thank you” interaction for every purchase a customer makes (Bonus points: Automate these with Shopify Flow)

04  BFCM code freeze & incident response
Shopify understands the importance of a smooth shopping experience for both our merchants and their customers. To ensure platform stability, we enforce a code freeze during the week leading up to BFCM. This means that we don't make any modifications to the product or infrastructure, except for addressing bugs, incidents, and implementing marketing code specifically designed for peak season.

Throughout the BFCM period, November 23-28, we continue to uphold the code freeze and only introduce business-critical changes if they are absolutely necessary. These changes undergo a rigorous approval process to ensure their significance and impact on your store. The result of these efforts is a stable platform for you and your customers during the busy peak season.
Shopify's teams prepare for BFCM with the intention of it being “just another week at Shopify,” with the same platform reliability and speed that our merchants and partners count on throughout the year, regardless of the increased traffic and sales.

With that said, if a merchant experiences an issue during BFCM, below are our recommendations for connecting with Shopify Support:

- Refer to Shopify’s status page for updates.

- Encourage your Shopify Plus merchants to contact support in the Admin.
  - Click Profile > Contact support
  - Your merchants will have the option to connect with our support team via live chat, email, or phone

- Merchants can also visit help.shopify.com/support.
  - Use the search bar at the top of the page
  - Ask the virtual assistant to speak to a Plus Support Specialist
  - Chat with us
  - Request a callback
